ALOUETTE HEAD COACH DALTON AND DR. PERCY HEADLINE LOYOLA'S FOURTH ANNUAL FOOTBALL COACHING CLINIC

An open invitation is extended to all minor and high school football coaches of Montreal and area to attend Loyola College's fourth Annual Bilingual Football Coaching Clinic to be held at the Loyola gym on Saturday, June 7th. The event is co-sponsored by the college and by LaBatt's Brewery.

Headlining the list of guest speakers will be back Bill Symons of the Toronto Argos, last year's Schenley Award Winner. The day-long agenda is slated to open at 9:00 a.m. with Loyola's assistant coach Tony Pajaczkowski discussing his speciality, defensive line play. Dr. Ted Percy, noted Orthopoedic surgeon and former Alouette Team Doctor will give a talk on the recognition and treatment of common football injuries, illustrated by slides and films at 10:00 a.m. A question and answer period will follow his presentation.

At 11:30, Bob Geary, newly appointed assistant coach with the Als, will expound on offensive line play, followed by a lunch break at 12:30.

Special guest speaker Bill Symons of the Argos will open the afternoon session at 2:00 p.m. with a talk on the techniques of offensive halfbacks. Following his stellar effort for the Scullers last season, he is certainly ably qualified in this field.

O.K. Dalton, head coach of the Als, will close the show at 3:00 p.m. with an insight into the organizational aspects of a football team. He will touch upon staff, administration and coaching.

Moderator for the clinic will be Loyola's successful head coach George Dixon, himself an ex-Schenley Award winner. The Connecticut Nutmegger opines that this year's clinic shapes up as the best yet.

Loyola's French-Canadian varsity players will be in attendance to lend a helping hand with the translation chores, so it is to be hoped that a goodly number of French speaking coaching personnel will turn up.
